Your Amazing Life Experience Starts Here

Computer Engineering

The Bachelor's Degree Program in Computer Engineering at Ilia State University provides the student with the knowledge of the principles of digital computer operation. In today's world computers play significant role. Personal and server computers are their well know examples. Besides them, no lesser role is played by microcomputers, which control the operation of various devices and instruments. For example, mobile phones, digital cameras, television sets, washing machines, automobiles, medical instruments, airplanes, artificial satellites etc.

After completing the Bachelor's degree, a student can write software for microcontrollers and microprocessors, design and build medium-difficulty digital and hybrid circuits, as well as interface them with digital and analog sensors, and control devices.
